2. Important information for applicants

- In accordance with section 145A of the Planning and Development Act 2005 (PD Act), the Western Australian Planning Commission (WAPC) may grant an extension to the period for submission of a diagram or plan of survey where it can be demonstrated that the applicant has done everything that is reasonably practicable to enable the submission, and approval of, the diagram or plan of survey within the original approval period. To determine that this requirement has been met, the applicant must demonstrate that:
 - where conditions of subdivision approval require that studies/reports/plans/technical drawings are to be prepared, these have been prepared and signed off by the relevant public authority/local government/utility service provider.
 - construction/building/servicing works are substantially progressed. In this case the applicant must provide a reasonable timeline for completion. Evidence to this effect can include service agreements, building contracts, photographs, and correspondence with relevant agencies, and this needs to be submitted with the application.Reasons for incomplete works, which are likely to support a grant of an extension are those relating to unforeseen or extreme events (e.g. seasonal changes, disruption or delays to supply chains and trades, etc.) and is unlikely to include personal business or financial considerations.
- Subdivision approval conditions which can only be satisfied by registering a relevant instrument on the diagram or plan of survey (deposited plan) or which can only be complied when the certificate of title is created, do not need to be addressed for the purpose of this application.
- In accordance with Section 145A(4)(b) of the PD Act the WAPC must not grant an extension unless the WAPC is satisfied that since the approval of the plan of subdivision was granted, there have been no significant changes to the requirements that apply under the PD Act to the area covered by the plan of subdivision.
- An application for extending the period of time may not be accepted and will be returned to the applicant if the requirements of this form are incomplete and/or the additional information outlined in sections 5, 6 and 7 is not provided.
